

Paseo Herencia hosts a mellow evening of accoustical art this weekend

Paseo Herencia displayed again this past weekend how the newly opened shopping center is a Mecca for great entertainment and fine food as well. While browsing the many shops that have opened there, shoppers could also enjoy an open air concert and savor specially priced snacks from Taste of Belgium and Balashi Beer on Saturday evening.

Taking center stage on acoustic guitar was the incomparable Antonio Bello along with Kevin Kock and John Tromp, to accompany song stylist Mirugia de Cuba as she regaled the audience her vast repertoire. Classic rock songs from the sixties through contemporary pop hits were on the program, plus regional favorites in Spanish, and an Aruban classic "A Bo So" (Only You) by noted island musician and composer Padu Lampe. Antonio Bello is noted for his range on the guitar, from hot rock riffs to jazz, blues, and country/western, and for two hours they entertained all that came to listen.

Since it has opened, the Paseo Herencia has made it a policy to provide more to the community than simply a place to shop. Each week they have hosted at least one spectacular event, be it a historic book launching, or an informal dog show for pets and their loving owners to honor International Animal Day.

Saturday's concert was classic mellow Bello, and the delightful new al fresco café opened by Taste of Belgium provided a delightful way to dine and enjoy the evening!
